Content, locations, and times are subject to change
Founded in 1957, the Maryland Association of Boards of Education (MABE) is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to serving and supporting boards of education in Maryland. MABE is a leading advocate for public education in the state. All 24 Maryland boards of education are members of MABE.

MISSION

Provide members with a strong collective voice and support local school board governance through professional development, advocacy and member services.

VISION

MABE is a champion for excellence in public education.

CORE VALUES

Our core values are integral to who we are and how we work. They are the guiding principles by which we conduct ourselves as we seek to fulfill our mission.

- We serve public school boards.
- We champion local governance.
- We create and encourage collaborative relationships.
- We value the diversity that enriches our school communities.
- We champion educational equity and excellence for each student.
- We are a safe place to learn, laugh, share, and network.

GOALS

Professional Development: Enhance professional learning opportunities to meet the diverse needs of all members.

Advocacy: Enhance and refine MABE’s leadership position, among education advocates, by providing quality resources to boards, board members, and staff, effectively advocating for MABE’s positions and the role of local board governance.

Community and Business Partnerships: Provide avenues for businesses and nonprofits to connect with MABE member boards to facilitate student achievement, enabling them to operate more efficiently, offer benefits to staff, or generate revenue for the school system and MABE.

Communications and Marketing: Provide meaningful information to and through board members that serves and supports them in their work, informs the larger community, and communicates the value of MABE as a professional organization.

Association Government & Management: Ensure the effective and efficient growth and functioning of the association.

Equity: Assist member boards in developing a shared understanding and vision of educational equity by helping them to formulate and implement an equity policy that provides educational equity for each student by creating and maintaining equitable, inclusive, and diverse environments.
On behalf of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education and the Conference Program Committee, we welcome you to Annapolis and this year’s Annual Conference.

This year’s program is designed to be engaging, informative, thought-provoking, and fun. Our goal is for participants to leave reflecting on what they have learned and to utilize this knowledge to become more effective board members. We also look forward to everyone’s participation in the Annual Business Meeting, during which the membership will conduct critical business and decide governance issues that will determine MABE’s direction this year.

Along with our new venue, the Committee is excited to try a few new things; the first being fewer workshops so there will be greater attendance, resulting in deeper conversations and sharing. Last year’s Superintendent/Board Member Forum was so well received; we’ve decided to do it again this year, but with a few state and local board members. Make sure you contribute a question for discussion by writing it on the notecard in your conference bag!

We are excited about the Marquee Workshop on the topic of safe schools to be presented by Verjeana Jacobs, NSBA Equity Officer, and the three workshop sessions from which you’ll be able to choose to further explore the topic of safe schools. While we will miss Ocean City’s Boardwalk, we will still have our traditional “Board Walk” to our State’s Capital.

Finally, please be sure to visit the Exhibit Hall, the one-stop marketplace for the latest education innovations, supplies, and services for schools. We have a few new exhibitors eager to meet you!

We appreciate the experience and enthusiasm you bring to this conference, and we thank you for choosing to be a part of what we know will be a valuable learning experience for all. You are MABE’s greatest asset, and your support and leadership make the accomplishments of the organization possible. We look forward to learning and leading with you!

State and Local Board Forum

Last year, the committee introduced the Superintendent/Board Forum which was met with resounding positivity. This year, join state and local board members for a panel discussion about how state and local boards work together, impact one another, and differ from each other. Conference attendees will submit their questions at the beginning of the conference, to allow the conversation to focus on questions which board members around the state are most curious.

The Capitol Walk & Dome Tour

Buses will leave the lobby of the Westin at 3:05 pm exactly. Be sure to bring your picture ID and a good pair of walking shoes. The Dome tour requires that you climb several flights of stairs. Buses will return participants to the Westin at 5:15pm.

Parking

Don’t forget to tell the valet that you are with MABE so you can use the Annual Conference daily rate of $10.00!

Photo Opportunity

Don’t forget to take a selfie with our speech bubbles to show you social media followers why you love public education and what being a board member means to you. Post using the hashtag #MABE2019

Sean McComb believes that education, done well, reminds us of the best in humanity: fellowship and service coming together to faithfully work toward a better future—both individually and collectively. He has carried this belief throughout his 14-year career in education.

For 12 years Sean taught students at Patapsco High School and Center for the Arts in Baltimore County, where he spent much of his career championing and building a site of the AVID college-readiness program. He also created a pathway to college for students who are almost all first-generation students, the vast majority FARMS eligible and entering high school in the academic middle. Over the last 6 years, 99% of students in Patapsco’s AVID program have earned admission to a four-year college, almost all as first-generation college students.

Sean also shared his classroom practice as Teacher Laureate at Teaching Channel, brought teacher voice into policy and outreach at the U.S. Department of Education as a Teaching Ambassador Fellow, spread hope as a Speaker for the U.S. Department of State, and has served Baltimore County Public Schools in designing and leading professional learning. Last year he took on a new endeavor in a turn-around effort as a school leader at Pleasant Plains Elementary School.

Sean has advocated for teachers and education across four continents, but still finds his most meaningful work to be in the school house. Sean was awarded the 2014 Maryland and National Teacher of the Year.

To Thrive, Not Just Survive: Advice from the Schoolhouse

Sean McComb believes that education, done well, reminds us of the best in humanity: fellowship and service coming together to faithfully work toward a better future—both individually and collectively. He has carried this belief throughout his 14-year career in education.

For 12 years Sean taught students at Patapsco High School and Center for the Arts in Baltimore County, where he spent much of his career championing and building a site of the AVID college-readiness program. Safe and Supportive Schools

Shift the paradigm, change the story, and alter a child’s life trajectory by fostering a positive learning environment. Far too many students feel unsafe, unseen, and unsupported at school, yet far too many schools lack understanding about how to meet the needs of all their students, particularly those who are most vulnerable and historically underserved. This session explores ways to ensure safe learning environments that avoid blaming the child, and instead focuses on empathy and healing.

This session will be led by Verjeana M. Jacobs, Esq. who currently serves as the Chief Equity and Member Services Officer for the National School Boards Association (NSBA) where she advocates nationally for educational equity, seeking to identify and eradicate discriminatory practices, prejudices and beliefs related to race, disability, and socio-economic status in public education. She regularly provides board development, transition planning, and specialized professional development in a variety of settings.

Jacobs has over 25 years in public service working with multiple complex bureaucracies including PreK-12 education school systems, state and national non-profit organizations, government agencies, and labor unions. Working with diverse stakeholders, she supports group identification of a shared agenda, always seizing opportunities to build respect and trust. Whether acting as President of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education, or as Vice Chair of the National School Boards’ Council of Urban Boards of Education, Jacobs is known for her effectiveness in bringing divergent stakeholders to the table to tackle contentious, yet necessary issues with the focus on improving quality of life.

Trauma/ACEs

Shifting mindsets from identifying "What is wrong" to understanding "What has happened": Understanding trauma and trauma-sensitive schools

According to research, childhood trauma is among the most relevant and significant psychosocial factors affecting education today. The landmark ACES (Adverse Childhood Experiences Study), conducted between 1995 and 1997, uncovered the correlation between trauma and toxic stress experienced in childhood to long-term physical and mental well-being in adulthood and into an individual's senior years. This session aims to provide participants with a clear overview of childhood trauma and ACEs along with what it means to be a trauma-informed school.

This interactive session will provide participants with a deeper understanding of:
- The school board’s role in ensuring a district culture that values the impact of trauma on student learning.
- The science and research of trauma and Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs).
- The types of childhood trauma and their prevalence.
- The effects that trauma can have on behavior.
- What a trauma-informed school is.
- Best practices for creating a school culture that address the needs of students experiencing trauma.

Facilitator:
Adam Lustig, Director, NSBA Center for Safe Schools

Differently Abled Students

Originally signed into law in 1975, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) is the main federal statute governing special education for children. Today, IDEA protects the rights of over six million students with disabilities (approximately 13.5 percent of students) to receive a Free Appropriate Public Education in the least restrictive environment.

This interactive session will provide participants with a deeper understanding of:
- The school board’s role in creating a district culture that values students who are differently abled, as assets of the student body
- Pertinent data related to students with differing abilities
- The impact of positive engagement and collaboration with families of students with differing abilities on school climate and culture
- Professional development implications for general and special education teachers and their ability to meet the needs of each of their students
- Promising practices for district boards and leaders to support students with differing abilities and their families

DR. KAREN SALMON

Educational Equity and Excellence in Maryland

Dr. Karen Salmon, Maryland State Superintendent, will be leading a conversation regarding emerging issues and critical trends in Maryland school systems. At the conclusion of the presentation, there will be time for questions.

Dr. Salmon was appointed Maryland State Superintendent on July 1, 2016, after serving as the Interim Deputy State Superintendent. She formerly served as the Assistant State Superintendent for the Division of College and Career Readiness.

Prior to working at the Maryland State Department of Education, Dr. Salmon served as the Superintendent of Schools for the Bay Shore Union Free School District in New York from 2013-2015 and Superintendent of Talbot County Public Schools in Maryland from 2003-2013.

Committed to achieving educational equity by erasing racial disparities in student achievement and participation, Dr. Salmon established a District Equity Leadership Team to provide professional development for all staff via the Beyond Diversity Program.

Let’s Get Social: Managing Your Presence

Communication has been transformed with the increasing popularity of social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and more. It can be tricky for board members to adopt and use these forms of communication to stay connected with their community. In this session, attendees will learn best practices and pitfalls on using social media as well as when to respond to negative comments. In addition, the presenter will share cautions on using social media and tips on how to make social media posts effective and engaging.

Speakers:
Barbara M. Hunter, APR, President/CEO, Hunter Communications

Equity and Excellence: Aligning Systems of Accountability

The Montgomery County Public Schools’ (MCPS) Strategic Plan represents our continued commitment to the five core values that define an exceptional school system: Learning, Relationships, Respect, Excellence and Equity.

MCPS is committed to educating our students so that academic success is not predictable by race, ethnicity, gender, socioeconomic status, language proficiency or disability. Our quest to eliminate gaps for all groups is central to all of our initiatives. One such initiative is to measure the impact our schools have on groups of students who have traditionally underperformed when compared to their Asian and White non-poverty peers. Using multiple measures, MCPS has moved beyond aggregate level reporting to put a laser focus on the disparities in performance that exist at the school level. This focus creates the conditions necessary to make intentional decisions about how well MCPS is using its people, time and money resources to ensure equitable practices.

This session will highlight equity practices through dimensions such as teaching quality, access to rigorous courses, time and attention, and others.

Speakers:
Shebra L. Evans, President, Montgomery County Board of Education
Patricia B. O’Neill, Vice President, Montgomery County Board of Education
Dr. Monifa B. McKnight, Deputy Superintendent, Montgomery County Public Schools
Dr. Janet S. Wilson, Associate Superintendent, Montgomery County Public Schools
Leading for Equity: Policies, Processes, and Practices

In this interactive session participants will explore the concepts of power, privilege, bias, and the hidden curriculum as they relate to personal leadership development and the work of boards leading for excellence for each person in every system. Various perspectives will be explored as we tackle barriers to equity for all in education.

Speakers:
Laurie Namey, Supervisor of Equity and Cultural Proficiency, Harford County Public Schools
Martha James-Hassan, Baltimore City School Commissioner
Global Community Citizenship Course
Capitol A

Learn about Anne Arundel County’s Global Community Citizenship Course. Students learn through real world occurrences and issues and identify and discuss topics, events, and essential questions relevant to their local community which allow them to understand their role in demonstrating civic virtues.

This course also requires students to consider the cultural, historical, and technological influences that have shaped modern society and consider how these impact students’ lives now and into the future.

That is followed by the exploration of traditions of people in our local and global communities, with a goal of fostering values of acceptance and inclusion of all people.

Speakers:
- Mary Tillar, Assistant Superintendent for Advanced Studies & Programs, Anne Arundel County Public Schools
- Shannon Pugh, Manager of Assessments, Anne Arundel County Public Schools
- Maureen McMahon, PhD, Deputy Superintendent for Academics & Strategic Initiatives, Anne Arundel County Public Schools

Reinventing High School: Shedding a Century Old Model to Prepare
Senate Rm.

Discover how Frederick County Public Schools reimagined the century old model of public high schools into one better equipped to meet the rapidly changing needs of today’s graduates. Hear how the Board, Superintendent, district staff, business, community, and state leaders collaborated to transform the high school experience into a truly student-centered model, that provides students academic challenge, maximum choice, and flexibility in meeting their individual goals for career and college.

Speakers:
- Joy Schaefer, Vice President, Frederick County Board of Education
- Dr. Theresa Alban, Superintendent, Frederick County Public Schools
- Dr. David Franceschina, Principal, Frederick High School

The Excellence in Education Award was established in 2012 by the Maryland Association of Boards of Education to honor then-retiring Executive Director Dr. Carl W. Smith. It is presented to an individual who has demonstrated exemplary leadership and service to excellence in public education in Maryland. This year, the award is being presented to Dr. Nancy Grasmick.

Maryland’s first female superintendent, Dr. Grasmick also remains the longest-serving appointed superintendent in the United States with 20 years of service. Prior to her appointment as the State Superintendent of Schools, she initially focused on teaching deaf children at the William S. Baer School in Baltimore, and then rose among the ranks in Baltimore County to become a principal, supervisor and assistant and associate superintendent.

The nomination submission for Dr. Grasmick observed that “with a strong focus on student achievement, teaching quality and funding for public schools, this nominee made significant, visionary strides to improve the quality of public schools across the state. Combining experience with knowledge, vision, and strong political skills, the nominee instituted changes that have defined education in Maryland for decades. The nominee’s visionary leadership had a ripple effect across the nation as other states followed Maryland’s lead.”

Learning of her selection, MABE President Tolbert Rowe noted “I am pleased MABE is honoring such an exceptional academic leader and public school advocate this year. Dr. Grasmick has been a pioneer in championing the importance of educational equity, school funding, and early childhood education. Although she has received many awards throughout her outstanding career, it is most fitting for her to receive the Excellence in Education Award.”

Excellence Elevated

Most people go through life without ever really pushing themselves to the limits of what’s possible. As a result, many times we miss out on all of the abundant rewards that life has to offer.

Originally from Kingston, Jamaica, Mark Brown immigrated to the United States at 18 years old with only $40 in his pocket and a dream for a better life. Today, he has become one of the most popular inspirational speakers in the world. In 1995, Mark defeated more than 20,000 contestants from 14 countries to win the illustrious Toastmasters World Championship of Public Speaking. Since then, he has delivered more than 3,500 presentations to more than 1.7 million people on 4 different continents.

As an expert in helping people overcome their fears to reach their maximum potential, Mark has been featured in the New York Times, Men’s Health, on CNN Headline News, and even had his own PBS Special which was nominated for an Emmy Award.
